ZuZu's a jolly good fellow, ZuZu's a jolly good fellow,
ZuZu's a jolly good fellow, and so say all of us

Hi Folks..,

EXCURSION TO BANGALORE & MYSORE

ZuZu is the happiest this month. I have already packed my bags and on a vacation at present with my friends in Wonder la, Bangalore. My friends and I are spending a jolly four good days visiting places in Bangalore and Mysore.

Yesterday, was also a learning time for ZuZu and his friends, as we went to Visveshwarayya Science Museum in Bangalore. I was immersed in the world of science and learnt the latest updates in the subject. Though I am still in Bangalore, I would like to give you quick glimpse of my school last month. September was a slightly calm month when compared to the celebrations of July & August. We were all busy completing our notes, revising the lessons and gearing up for the exams. My teachers, who are of course my best friends gave us a lot of support and tips for the exams. They told us

1. Read All Questions Carefully. ...
2. Sleep well ...
3. Eat good nutritious food ...
4. Review Your Answers Thoroughly.
5. Pray to God before we started to write

THE MOM & ME DANDIYA EVENT

We all finished our exams (I enjoyed writing them very much) with much gusto and the last day was fun too with my mother dancing in “THE MOM & ME DANDIYA EVENT” the traditional Gujarati dance form often played during Desera. As the music played on my mom and I danced in our traditional attire to the popular energetic garba dance numbers.

POTTERWHEEL ACTIVITY:

The school continued its eco- friendly vision with a Potter's wheel in the campus. The student's class wise molded the clay Ganeshas ushering the true spirit of the festival. The school resounded with the shrieks and laughter of all the students as they played with the mud and shaped the belly God with their tiny hands. The activity with the Potter's wheel also attracted the preprimary students who honed their fine motor and gross motor muscles with the swirling wheel and the spinning mud. The teachers too tried their hands at the spinning activity. The school thus stood on its vision of being a true environment friendly one where all the students took home a clay God shaped by their own hands.

BATHUKAMMA

My state of Telangana is a rich repertoire of culture and folklore. Many of the festivals here, have an ecological significance and closely related to nature. Just like the Ganesh, that we all honored this month, we welcomed the goddess BATHUKAMMA. The entire festival draws its vision from Nature as the goddess is decked with flowers and is worshiped with traditional songs sung by women dressed in all spender. The ten day festival sees the goddess being worshiped in different forms in different colors. The festival thus ushers in a spirit of unity and togetherness.

While we were busy writing exams, my teachers also took up training in different areas of work. Four coordinators attended a British Council work shop and the preprimary teachers connected to their counterparts in google hangout sessions.

TEACHER'S DAY:

Teacher's day is celebrated all over the country in honor of a great teacher Dr. Sarvepalli Radha Krishnan, the second president of Independent India. My school honored these selfless and relentless friends of mine by honoring them with gifts and a lovely luncheon.

With a small ten day break given to us, my teachers also sent a small trans disciplinary holiday assignment to be completed. (Some of them look really interesting).
